

INSTRUCTIONAL Coaching

Job-Embedded Professional Learning

Great teachers foster great students. And supporting great teachers requires regular updates to their tools and resources, along with exposure to new ways of thinking.

The RTI Center for Education Services respects educators as professionals. By recognizing their expertise and knowledge, we can help identify growth opportunities and design paths to meet their goals.

Embedded instructional coaching is a unique opportunity for educators to hone their skills, understand new and innovative processes, and build their capacity to meet the needs of students.

We've helped U.S. educators establish and attain their professional goals through ongoing, embedded, and differentiated coaching cycles. Our trained coaches, all of whom are experienced educators, leverage evidence-based practices and diverse coaching theories to help educators advance their skills and lead change in their schools.

“Working with RTI has been the best investment our school has made. The support we receive for our teachers from our instructional coach is second to none.”

Jonathan Brown, Davidson County Schools

Challenge: To provide one-on-one coaching support for teachers in an alternative teacher preparation program.

Customized Support: The CCTI engaged RTI International to help develop coaches who could better prepare teachers for member districts’ needs. The coaching program focused on ways to help teachers develop their planning, reflecting, and problem-solving skills.

RTI provided one-on-one virtual and on-site support.

Results: According to a final coaching support evaluation completed by district coaches, all coaches agreed or strongly agreed that RTI’s support helped them reflect on their coaching values and beliefs and supported evolution of their coaching practices.

Learn More

All children deserve a quality education that empowers them to thrive. However, each day educators are faced with new challenges driven by the accelerating pace of change. The need to perceive, understand, and act on emerging trends and practices creates added complexity and can strain capacity. At RTI, we’re partnering with educators to change that.
